

GOVERNOR'S BUDGET ARGUMENT CENTER; TAX INCREASE SEEN

New Program Will Increase Taxes $10,000,000 Above Present Biennium Level

PREPARE AN ATTACK

Republicans, After Scrutiny, Counter Claims of A Reduction

By A. Norman Gage
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

HARRISBURG, Feb. 25.—(INS).—Gov. George H. Earle's day-old budget became the center of controversy today when it became evident that the new program will increase taxes $10,000,000 above the level of the present biennium.

Republicans, carefully scrutinizing the two-year taxing and spending plan, are preparing to attack the budget from this angle, countering administration claims that a reduction of $25,950,000 would be effected.

As usual in the inevitable political debates over state finances, the wide difference of opinion about the $354,185,206 general fund budget is a matter of interpretation and divergent comparisons. So far as the average citizen is concerned, the growing controversy simmers down to these facts:

Pennsylvania taxpayers, during the budget recommended for the next two years, would pay $10,069,628 more taxes than they paid during the biennium ending May 31, this year.

At the same time, they will pay $25,950,000 less than they would pay if all the present normal and emergency taxes were to be continued.

Republican critics contend that the increase from 1935-37 tax payments is actual and that the decrease emphasized by the Governor is a "paper" reduction. They base their charges on the fact that total general fund collections for the current biennium, as contained in the budget, are $344,015,578, as compared with estimated tax collections of $354,185,206 for 1937-39. This increase, they argue, is a fact while the "reduction" stressed in the budget message is theoretical, especially in view of the fact that all of the existing emergency taxes were levied to expire next May 31.

The following comparison of first estimated receipts for the 1937-39 biennium and second, actual and estimated receipts for the current period, indicate the tax trend proposed by Governor Earle:

Normal taxes, $161,355,206; liquor profits, $31,500,000; amusement tax, discarded, $6,715,000; cigarette tax, $19,500,000; $19,500,000; gasoline (one cent), $23,000,000; $21,242,919; personal property tax, $34,400,000, $22,203,000; corporate income tax, $35,000,000, $38,250,000; documentary tax, discarded, $816,705; gross receipts tax, $9,000,000, $5,014,510; capital stock—domestic, $15,000,000, $13,500,000; capital stock—foreign, discarded, $691,729.

Loans tax (domestic), $6,337,500, $2,750,000; loans tax (foreign), $112,500, $125,000; inheritance tax, discarded, $50,000; tax on shares, $3,908,000, $2,500,000; distillers tax, discarded, $1,400,000; liquor sales tax, $15,000,000, $7,500,000.

The totals: 1937-39, $354,185,206; 1935-37, $344,015,578.

PATRICIA E. PHIPPS

Bristol

Here's one to open your eyes and warm your heart, a charming and vivacious miss whose popular appeal will be tremendous. Yes, she's Patricia Phipps, known to hundreds of the readers of this paper and a general favorite with many of them. What a chance the baby election gives her, for she has determination and ability in abundance and with acknowledged physical grace, she is going to be a mighty hard campaigner to defeat. Patricia is the seventeen months old brown-eyed, blonde curly haired daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Phipps, of Bristol. Mr. and Mrs. George Phipps, of Edgely, and Mrs. Mary Moore, of Bristol, are the proud grandparents of this little candidate and are putting forth their best efforts to help Patricia win in the election.

JANE SUZANNE TOWNSEND

Bristol

Pretty babies everywhere and—just who would one find prettier than Jane Townsend. With such lovely brown eyes, brown curly hair and disposition as sweet as the smile of a fairy, this twenty months old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob M. Townsend, popular hotel managers, of Bristol, is making a strong bid for the big cup and the regal honors that go with it. Jane is sure to command strong support for she is one of the most friendly and affectionate as well as one of the prettiest of all the baby candidates. Chief among her active electioneers is Mr. Joshua Townsend, Sr., of Philadelphia, and Mr. D. F. Rufe, owner of the Keystone Hotel in Bristol, who are looking after their granddaughter's interest in the Baby Election. Jane's favorite pastime is getting into the bath-tub with her clothes on.

JOSEPH WM. KELLER, JR.

Bristol

Elections come and elections go, but the people of this community are being called upon to decide a momentous question just now—the like of which "oldest residents" cannot recall. And—with a candidate such as we view here in the person of Master Joseph Keller, Jr., the manly little son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Keller, of Bristol. Mr. Wm. Keller, of Philadelphia; Mrs. Wm. Keller, of Bristol, and Mr. and Mrs. Griffith Williams, of Bristol, are the grandparents of this little nominee. Little Joseph's great-grandmother lives in Philadelphia. This little nominee with a happy smile on his face and laying here in a character-revealing pose reflects some of the aggressiveness that his supporters are putting forth for him. This "future President" was one of the very first candidates.

KAY CRAWFORD

Edgely

An affectionate, intelligent and bright little girl is pictured here. She is Kay Crawford, a sweet friendly little miss and one of the foremost contenders for the community-wide honors. Yes, her eyes are blue and she has red curly hair. Count on her to hold your interest right up to the last day. Her sweet manner is not beguiling—she won't fool you, and once you know her, you'll love her too. Little Kay is the one and a half year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. T. Crawford, of Edgely. Kay's father is in a produce market on Mill street, and her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Margerum, operate a service station in Edgely. Mr. Wm. Crawford, of Bristol, also is the grandfather of Kay. Kay is very busy holding her foot up in this picture, but we think she really is thinking about getting Baby Votes.

MORE THAN ONE HUNDRED BABIES ARE LISTED IN THE "FAVORITE" ELECTION

Today marks the official opening of the election of Bristol and near community's "Favorite Baby." The closing date is Saturday, April 24, 1937. The first list of nominations is published today.

More than a hundred babies of this community have already been entered in The Courier's "Shower of Cash" election.

Saturday, April 24, will see one of them, or a later entrant in the election, named "Favorite" of this community.

with the presentation of the beautifully engraved loving cup and the $500 in cash, to be awarded immediately after the last vote has been counted.

But remember this is only the initial list. It is expected that many more entrants will be received. Some sections of the community are not sufficiently represented. The entry books are open to receive additional entries. The Bristol Daily Courier, in order to make the "Shower of Cash" election the real choice of this community's "favorite," desires entrants from every town, community and rural route in the trade territory. Look over the list and if your town, community or route is not sufficiently represented, enter your baby, or next best, that of a friend or relative.

Yesterday the office of the favorite baby election editor (218 Mill street) was a busy place indeed; some called to lend their encouragement to the project and to compliment the idea as a whole. Many wanted to know more about the rules for entering and just what had to be done to gain a place for their favorite in the list of nominees.

The answer is simple. You need only come to the election headquarters and fill in the nomination coupon for your favorite, or if it is more convenient to phone in the nomination, just call Bristol 3122 and give the name of the vivacious youngster you want to enter for the election honors and the big cash awards that go to the winners and if possible bring or send a good picture of the baby.

Remember, there is no cost involved in any way. You don't need to even have a picture. For those who don't, the editor has arranged to make the photograph without cost to the parent. Only an entry from the Favorite Baby election editor upon Nichols Studio to have the picture made is necessary. Could there be anything easier?

Interest in the election has been spreading like wildfire throughout the community since Thursday when the announcement of the popular event appeared in The Courier.

Start this day right by making certain that your favorite is entered, then join in the fun with other community citizens by doing your part to boost his or her vote totals by requesting the coupons the co-operating stores have for you. Bear in mind that votes are free and all you have to do is to request them when you make purchases or pay your account. When you boost for your favorite baby in the election you are boosting for Bristol and community and its best interests.

THESE CHILDREN VIE HONOR FOR COMMUNITY'S FAVORITE BABY

The names of the babies entered in the Favorite Baby Election up to noon today are printed below. The enrollment books are open for additional entries, and the first tabulation of votes will be made Monday, March 1st, and the standings will appear in The Bristol Courier, Tuesday March 2nd. See to it that your Favorite Baby has a good representation for the first vote count by depositing every possible vote in the official ballot box at Campaign Headquarters, 218 Mill street, before 10 o'clock Saturday night, February 27th. Be sure to ask for your "Baby Votes" when making purchases at the co-operating stores and vote for YOUR Favorite Baby. Phone 3122 for particulars or call at Election Headquarters.

MOTHERS, BIG SISTERS ENTERTAINED BY PUPILS

Hope at Tullytown School is To Organize a Parent-Teacher Group Soon

EXCELLENT PROGRAM

TULLYTOWN, Feb. 25.—The mothers and big sisters of Tullytown pupils were entertained by the girls and faculty of Tullytown School, Tuesday evening. The affair was held in the primary room, and was very well attended.

Principal Georg Zarr spoke, of the purpose of the meeting, which is to create more interest in the school, and of the possibility of some time having a Mothers' Association or a Parent-Teacher Association. The guests were invited to attend sessions of the school at any time. A similar meeting of the fathers was held a few weeks ago when the men were entertained by the sons.

The meeting was then turned over to Miss Rose Lucisano, president of the class of 1937, who called on Miss Dorothy Polack for a recitation, "Welcome." Two songs were given by the primary grades, "How-Do-You-Do, Everybody," and "To the North Pole We Will Go," pupils being led by Marjorie Swangler. Recitations given were "Very Perverse" by Gladys Liberatore, and "The Sad Snow Man," by Louise Bachofer.

A sketch, "Why Washington Did Not Become a Sailor," was presented by several girls from the intermediate room: Mrs. Washington, Mary Headley; Betty Washington, Margaret Markey; George Washington, Helen Lucisano; Lawrence Washington, Marie Napoli.

"The Absent-Minded Professor" was the title of a play staged by girls of the senior and junior rooms. The part of the professor was played by Mary Doto, with Rose Lucisano as his wife; children, Frances Pezza and Anna Mae Stake. The pupils were impersonated by Sonia Johnson, Ruth Bachofer, Lottie Terrynna, Betty Bachofer.

A spelling bee was captained by Miss Ruth Bachofer and Miss Anna Mazzechi, with Miss Bachofer's team being champions. The guests were then entertained by the Lyric Band of Langhorne. Refreshments were served.

N. I. LUKENS MAKES A NARROW ESCAPE AS GARAGE BLAZES

Flames Shoot From Beneath Work-Bench, Igniting Coat-Sleeve

GARAGE IS GUTTED

Two Automobiles Destroyed In Building Where Fuel Oil is Stored

A narrow escape from serious burns was experienced yesterday afternoon by Newton I. Lukens, when flames shot from beneath the bench at which he was working in the garage on the rear of his property, 207 Otter street. Mr. Lukens, dealer in fuel oil, etc., sustained slight burns on the right arm, when his coat became ignited, and was treated by a physician.

In the fire which ensued a small can of fuel oil exploded, as did also one small tank believed to be practically empty of liquid fuel.

Two automobiles, a sedan and a coupe, were destroyed, and the large garage in which were stored numerous cans of fuel oil and gasoline, was practically gutted. In the garage near the corner where the blaze started was a 200-gallon tank of fuel oil, which in some miraculous manner escaped the flames. Huge tanks underground were protected by the concrete floor.

It was at about one p. m., as Mr. Lukens was working at a bench in his garage that a flame shot from beneath the bench and ignited the sleeves of his coat. He rushed from the building for help, and a neighbor, seeing his plight, continued to the nearest fire alarm box. Mr. Lukens hurriedly ripped his coat from him and beat out the flames, but before his arm was painfully burned. Within a few seconds the garage was a mass of flames.

Bristol Consolidated Fire Company responded to the alarm, and kept the flames from spreading. A garage on the adjoining property, owned by Frank Delia, caught fire, but damage to the frame siding was reported as slight. The intense flames scorched the side of a residence just across the alley-way from the Lukens garage, and likewise cracked glass in some of the storm windows of the property.

The Lukens garage was a one-story structure, with wall of concrete, and roof of frame covered with rubberoid roofing. Dense smoke rolled from the scene, caused by the roofing, and some of the contents of the building. Firemen remained on the scene for an hour, two lines of hose being laid, and a large crowd was attracted by the dense pall.

Damage is estimated at approximately $2,000, to the building and contents. Some tools and equipment were also destroyed. The two automobiles are insured. The Lukens truck, fortunately, was not in the garage at the time.

Cause of the fire has not yet been determined. From the section under the work-bench from where the flames emanated were located pipes, some electric wiring, and a motor.

FUTURE FLOOD DAMAGE

It is possible that the worst effects of the floods are yet to be felt. They may be felt in some future summer as a drouth—the severest form of drouth, which strikes from below as well as above, owing to dearth of "ground water."

Ground water is water deep in the earth. It is not directly available for vegetation, except trees with deep rooting systems. But "veins" from it fill our wells, springs have their source in it, and it partly feeds many lakes and rivers. It thus helps immeasurably to mitigate the evils of long rainless periods. And by yielding moisture to the atmosphere long after the surface of the earth has thoroughly dried out, it may shorten those periods by inducing rainfall.

The ground water level of this country is falling constantly. Every year wells must be sunk deeper. The springs cease to flow. The rivers run dry and the lakes recede. The trees, set out in the hope that by transpiration they would modify drouths, themselves die because the ground water is beyond reach of their roots. All these things aggravate the suffering due to lack of surface moisture when there are insufficient summer rains. They make a drouth the terrible scourge that it was on the great plains last year.

What has caused the recession of the ground water level? More than anything else, the rapid run-off of winter rains, which prevents their settling into the earth and gradually sinking to bed rock. But the run-off this winter has been the worst on record, because the rains have fallen faster than they could be soaked up, and, anyway, have fallen mostly on frozen ground which they could not penetrate. In consequence, the ground water level will undoubtedly recede still farther. And the next drouth, if one comes, will be all the more destructive.

TELL YOUR CONGRESSMAN

President Roosevelt has asked Congress to give him authority to increase from nine to 15 the membership of the Supreme Court. This is a proposal to make fundamental change in the relation of the Executive to the Judicial department of our Government.

At first it was assumed that the Administration's effective majority in Congress would grant the President's request promptly. Now it appears that members of Congress, realizing the tremendous import of the decision, are refusing to work the rubber stamp.

Word comes from Washington that the final vote may be delayed for a considerable time. Congressmen want to hear from the people. They rightly hesitate to act on their own initiative in deciding an issue of so far-reaching importance. They need an accurate gauge of public opinion.

Wires and letters are heaping on congressmen's desks. The contents of those messages will have deciding influence. For this reason the weight of public opinion expressed should be representative of the will of all the people.

Thoughtful persons are doing a service of good citizenship in writing to members of Congress concerning this question.

SYNOPSIS

Keith Sheldie knew he was letting Denise Rendale down badly when he did not offer to marry her upon learning her father had gone bankrupt. However, there was nothing he could do about it, for wasn't he dependent on his wealthy father? And for some unknown reason, Sheldie, Sr., did not want his son to marry. To do so, meant being disinherited. Keith frankly explains the situation to Denise. Though disappointed and broken-hearted, she bravely faced him and said: "Let's never see each other again. Good-by!"

CHAPTER II

Keith started to follow her. Then he stood still. Her light swaying figure went round a curve in the path, and out of sight. He sat down again, and thought: "But what else could I have done?"

But it seemed to Denise Rendale, walking through the first dusk, with her heart aching dreadfully, that he could have done so many things. Have faced his father—or have ignored his father, and chanced poverty with her.

All the year they had known each other began sliding through her head with a kind of troubling incoherence—evenings he and she had danced. Dance tunes and the remembered colors of her evening dresses spun around discordantly—waltzes, rhumbas, a red frock, a silver metal frock he had much admired, a white frock, a turquoise sash; and the vistas of the Starlitroof, and the trees in bloom outside the Casino window.

She said: "I cannot bear it. I always thought, until today, that he cared as I cared. But he never did. Never, never, never."

There was the winter week-end of a Long Island house-party. They skated under cold stars, very thick and clear, with the icy wind in their faces and her heart singing. That was the first evening that he said he loved her.

She had waited, through a spring, through a summer, through a summer's waning, and now until October, to hear him ask: "When shall we be married?" Only today, too plainly, had he shown he did not want to marry her.

She said to herself, "What shall I do? I can't get on without him," and was afraid she had said the words out loud, so she caught herself, made herself walk on fast, made herself think of the half-seen faces of passers-by, of her sister Felicia, who would be poised and indifferent as ever today, though doing what she could about their parents, in Felicia's offhand manner.

So she came to her father's house, a narrow high white stone house, crowded between two large apartment buildings.

Townes opened the door for her, as he had opened it ever since she could remember, as he would open the more after October thirty-first, on which date his wages were paid.

"Mrs. Dayne is waiting for you in the library."

She nodded and went on. Beside a leaping fire, her sister Felicia, who had been for nearly three years now Mrs. Eustace Gardiner Dayne, sat smoking sprawled over a decorative in a shabby leather chair, her red head comfortably against a magnificent cape of silver foxes hung over the chair back.

"There you are, Denise! Mother's resting; Father's conferring with creditors downtown still—he telephoned he would be home to dinner; and you look about as disturbed as I ever saw you. Surely you're not taking bankruptcy so hard. It's become so commonplace. Father's just a trifle late, though, to be fashionable. Thirty-two would have been a more popular year than thirty-four. Still, one can't choose one's times and occasions completely on one's own."

She blew smoke at the high ceiling, her lovely eyes narrowed, and waited for an answer.

Denise said: "I'm sorry for them. They'll have to leave this house."

Felicia shrugged. "Why does anyone want a house, when a penthouse is so much easier to run?"

corners of her eyes, down her cheeks.

She could have trusted her sister to ignore them. Felicia's voice was completely matter of fact: "This time next year you'll have forgotten him, or near enough."

"I doubt it."

"Would you be interested in my philosophy of life, Denise?"

"Felicia, what a darling you are! You just talk on and on, as if I were five and you were nine, and were still consoling me for a bump on the head. I remember one day you talked for two hours so fascinatingly about the clothes you meant to have when you grew up, that I forgot all my pains and aches. That was the time I tried on a pair of Mother's dancing slippers and fell downstairs in them."

"Well, I did achieve a good many clothes," Felicia said.

That was the first evening that Keith said he loved her.

"Father and Mother won't have money to move to a penthouse."

Her sister looked at her, surprisedly. "I wasn't meaning, 'Let them eat cake.' I was just talking while you caught your breath. What is the matter with you, Denise? You aren't usually so literal."

"Nothing."

Felicia's hazel eyes opened very wide. She said: "You went out with Keith Sheldie. Townes mentioned it. You return by yourself, in a state. Did he fail to say that he'd look after you and yours while breath was in him?"

At that bit of periphrasis from one not usually given to periphrasis in other people's affairs, or not even given to any apparent interest in them, Denise gasped. Then, to her chagrin, two tears slid out of the

"And practically everything else you ever wanted."

Felicia looked startled. "Practically is such a curious word. Anyway, my philosophy of life, about which you show no scrap of interest, is that everything is of absolutely equal value. The variety of the canapés my butler presents with cocktails is no more, no less, important than a sunset." Her voice didn't change at all when she said: "Didn't you know I had a broken heart once myself, Denise? I took it very hard, but I told no one, so no one ever had a chance to be amused at it or me."

Denise said: "Duane! I should have guessed, Felicia. I'm sorry."

Sitting in the coats while they are damp helps to mat the fur, and the owner is apt to think that drying out the coat is sufficient attention.

The best way to freshen up your furs is to hang them out in the air some clear day. Then take a clean whisk broom, dip it into grain alcohol and brush vigorously the wrong way of the fur. Use a heavy-toothed comb carefully to loosen the matted parts.

Use plenty of alcohol and brush until every inch of the fur has been covered—always brushing the wrong way of the fur. Let the furs hang until they become thoroughly dried, pounding them occasionally with the flat side of the whisk broom.

When well aired, brush with a stiff brush the right way. This home treatment not only improves the appearance of your furs, but it will ferret out any lurking moths, or moth eggs.

Also the loosening of the new matted parts helps to prevent wearing down the fur.

HOME TREATMENT WILL FRESHEN MATTED FURS

MAKE USE OF SACKS IN WINTER HANDWORK AND SAVE EXPENSE

By Rhadena Armstrong

Winter days find homemaker busy with some form of hand work. Muslin feed, flour, and sugar sacks, and the better quality burlap sacks have many uses for household articles.

These sacks may be successfully bleached and take good colors for dyeing. Swedish weaving, darning stitches, hemstitching and cross stitching with wool darning stitches, hemstitching and cross stitching with wool or heavy cotton yarns are effective on burlap while the muslin lends itself to bias, pickrack, drawn thread, and applique trimming.

To remove the color from these sacks several methods are recommended. One is to soak them in cold water for 24 or 36 hours. Rub bags with strong soap and boil in kerosene water, then wash in clean, soapy water. If all the color is not removed, boil in kerosene water a second time. Do not let the bags dry out until all the print has been removed. If they once dry out the print never will come out.

For the sacks that have yellow and red markings, soak in cold water for 24 or 36 hours. Boil in strong soap suds to which a bleaching agent has been added. Lye is the most common bleaching agent. Use plenty of water. If a second boiling is necessary do not let the sacks dry out between boilings.

Another method is to soak sacks in kerosene water for 24 or 36 hours. Boil in strong soap suds to which a bleaching agent has been added.

Sacks that have black or blue lettering are the most difficult to bleach. Rub the lettering with unsalted fat and soak in cold water for 24 or 36 hours. Boil in soap suds and a bleaching agent.

The method which seems particularly valuable in bleaching burlap bags is to soak them in kerosene and water for 24 or 36 hours, rinse and boil in strong soap suds and a bleaching agent.

To dye successfully follow directions which come with the dye.

BENSALEM ELEVEN IS HONORED AT BANQUET

CORNWELLS HEIGHTS, Feb. 25.—Bensalem high school celebrated its first annual football banquet last night when more than 200 persons, including students, parents, members of the School Board, teachers and guests, gathered in the high school auditorium here to honor Bensalem's football squad.

The program included presentation of letters to 16 members of the squad and three managers by Coach Reimer. Earl C. Waters, coach of soccer and track at State Teachers' College in West Chester, presented the feature address of the evening. Two reels of sound movies were also presented by John Quinn, American League baseball umpire. Singing was enjoyed by the assemblage at which S. K. Faust, superintendent of Bensalem schools, acted as toastmaster.

Coach Waters spoke on many phases of football and included a bit of history of the game in his talk. He urged home teams to be more courteous and considerate of visiting teams. Speaking of the history of football, Coach Waters pointed out that football was an outgrowth of soccer which was played in England. "Early football in the United States was not really football, but soccer," Mr. Waters said. "And since those early days the game has undergone many changes, and even today the rules are constantly changing."

Speaking of the popularity of football, Mr. Waters pointed out that it has an appeal for a large majority of the American people, as well as the fact that the game is adaptable to broadcasting, which makes it more popular. Another reason for its popularity, according to Mr. Waters, is because it can be so easily written about for the newspapers.

"And as a character builder, football has no equal," Mr. Waters said. "But the opportunity for teaching character depends largely on the coach, who can either make or break a boy's character."

Superintendent of Schools S. K. Faust gave a short welcoming address following the dinner. He spoke briefly on the value of football to the students.

"Our fondest hope," Mr. Faust pointed out, "is that our players have acquired the true spirit of sportsmanship. To be a true sport is to be a true man, and this is the greatest philosophy of life."

Four of the football men then favored with a quartet. Those in the quartet included Robert Lange, Bruce MacKenzie, Walter Fortman and Kimbel Faust.

Those who were presented their varsity letters by Coach Reimer included Joe Wilk, captain; Charles Abbott, Bob Lange, Bruce MacKenzie, Charles Carter, Herman Frederick, John Adams, Kimbel Faust, William Johannes, James Robinson, Joseph Bound, and Walter Fortman, manager, all seniors.

Captain-elect Harold Robinson was also presented with his varsity letter, as were Francis Borman, Alvin Marshall, Dick Swells and Jack Scarborough, the only sophomore to receive his letter. Joe Detrick, junior manager, and Eugene Snyder, assistant manager, also received letters.

In the brief talk given by Coach Reimer following the presentation of the letters, he advised for a slogan at the University of Pennsylvania, that "to win the game is great; to love the game is greater; but to play the game is greatest."

Mr. Faust also introduced Coach Beck of the Langhorne high school, who was a guest at the banquet, as well as Miss Helen Smith, coach of girls' athletics at Bensalem.

During the course of the evening, two Bensalem teachers, Mr. Taylor at the piano, and Mr. Frick, conductor, led the assembly in group singing.

The American League umpire, John Quinn, was the last guest to talk to the letter winners and their friends. Following his short address, in which he complimented the work of the Bensalem football squad, he presented two reels of talking pictures showing the life of the big leaguers in Southern training camps, umpire pictures, the manufacture of baseballs, and World Series shots.

The auditorium, which was well filled, was decorated in white and yellow with a number of potted plants on the tables and stage. Miniature football goal posts bedecked the tables. S. K. Faust voiced the hope that all football banquets to be held in future years will be as successful as this first annual affair.

SEATTLE, Wash. — (INS) — Mrs. Bertha Kober has asked the state game commission for permission to keep a brightly plumed pheasant that in-trusted her home until he grows a new tail. The bird crashed through a glass window, uninjured, and practically wrecked the living room. During the process of capture he lost his fine tail, which he needs for a rudder. Otherwise he seems contented.

Here, in the daily pages of the newspaper, is a seasoned section of the old family cook-book. National advertisers bring you formulas and recipes perfected by greater experience than one family could ever

RECIPES YOU'LL SURELY ENJOY

Chocolate Chiffon Pie

This delicious dish is certain to win applause from the men.

One tablespoon gelatine; one-fourth cup cold water; one and three-fourths cups milk; three-fourths cup sugar; two ounces chocolate; pinch of salt; two egg yolks, slightly beaten; two egg whites, beaten; one cup heavy whipped cream.

Soften gelatine in cold water. Combine milk, sugar, shredded chocolate and cook over a low flame until smooth, preferably using a double boiler. Stir in the slightly-beaten egg yolks and cook one minute only. Remove from fire and pour the mixture over the dissolved gelatine, stirring until dissolved. After the filling has cooled, fold in the beaten egg white. Pour into a baked pie shell and top with whipped cream.

Potatoes in Cream

Even though you are on a diet, the family should have an occasional nourishing hot potato dish on these blustery February nights.

Peel four medium potatoes. Cut in thin slices and cook in boiling salted water until they are almost tender. Drain, being careful not to break the slices. Put in the top of double boiler, adding one tablespoon of butter and a cup of thin cream. Steam over hot water until the cream is almost absorbed. Sprinkle with minced parsley.

These creamy potatoes have almost the same flavor as the delicious scalloped variety, but the double boiler method saves running the oven for an hour. A few drops of onion juice will improve the flavor of scalloped potatoes, which should be dredged with flour, as well as seasonings.

Lady Fingers De Luxe

Lady fingers are ideal for a quick ice-box dessert, covered with a rich chocolate sauce.

For a dessert that is ready even sooner, split the cakes, spread them with marmalade, jelly or jam, press them together and cover the outside with plain icing. For added delight, roll them in chopped nuts.

An easy method of preparing confectioner's icing is to add one cup of powdered sugar to one unbeaten egg white. Beat vigorously with heavy egg beater until the icing is stiff enough to spread. Flavor with vanilla, or a few drops of almond.

Egg Surprise

Eggs are often overlooked in planning luncheon or supper dishes. A supply of hard-boiled eggs, ready in the refrigerator, means a quick supper dish with cream sauce, melted cheese over the top of the casserole, and plenty of buttered toast.

Now comes the suggestion to combine eggs and mushroom soup. Heat a tin of the soup, pour a portion into individual buttered baking dishes and break a raw egg into each dish. Season, sprinkle with chopped parsley and a few drops of onion juice, if liked, and bake in a hot oven until the eggs are set. Use of the individual dishes also eliminates serving difficulties.

Ripe olives are excellent with egg dishes.

Cary Grant says:

"a light smoke rates aces high with my throat"

"Luckies have been my cigarette for five years now. I rate them a 4 star cigarette. They're always good to the throat, and taste so much better than other cigarettes that it seems to me this 'Toasting' process is a swell idea. Yes, a light smoke like Luckies rates aces high with both my throat and taste."

APPEARING IN THE NEW
COLUMBIA PICTURE, "WHEN YOU'RE IN LOVE"

THE FINEST TOBACCOS—
"THE CREAM OF THE CROP"

An independent survey was made recently among professional men and women—lawyers, doctors, lecturers, scientists, etc. Of those who said they smoke cigarettes, more than 87% stated they personally prefer a light smoke.

Mr. Grant verifies the wisdom of this preference, and so do other leading artists of the radio, stage, screen and opera. Their voices are their fortunes. That's why so many of them smoke Luckies. You, too, can have the throat protection of Luckies—a light smoke, free of certain harsh irritants removed by the exclusive process "It's Toasted". Luckies are gentle on the throat.

A SHOWER OF CASH for our Community's Beautiful Babies

(EDITOR'S NOTE:—"A SHOWER OF CASH" is a trade name for this feature. Cash will be awarded the winning babies.)

Cash Awards To Be Given The Community's Babies Will Provide The Foundation For Their Success In Life!

(These amounts will be given the parents of the winning babies at the conclusion of the election.)

A BUSINESS EDUCATION

COULD THERE BE ANYTHING MORE TIMELY—than to plan for the baby's education? Babies in arms today—boys and girls tomorrow—our future captains of industry and merchant princes. That is the hope and desire of every father and mother to have their child achieve success in life, whether in business or professionally, cannot be questioned. Right here and now a foundation can be laid for your baby's education, insure a training that will pay a practical and lasting dividend. Hiram N. Rasley, A. B., author of "Salaries In Business" in an interesting article in Cosmopolitan among other things said, "Give your boy or girl business training." Brief though that statement may seem, it is the answer that at least fits the needs of more than eighty per cent of the young men and women leaving high school and college, for it has been variously estimated that ultimately the livelihood of approximately that number is dependent upon some kind of business occupation.—AN EDUCATIONAL "NEST EGG" FOR YOUR BABY.

What is more appealing, more interest-compelling than a Baby? Everyone loves a baby. This paper will publish the photographs of scores of Beautiful Babies, and awards of lasting values will be given the winners.

The Voting Plan and the Rules

The Favorite Baby Election is restricted to The Communities' Babies who have not reached their fifth birthday today.

Children of the co-operating merchants, their employes and the employes of this newspaper are not eligible to compete. (This rule does not apply to our correspondents.)

The business concerns co-operating with The Bristol Courier in the Election will give vote coupons upon each fifty-cent cash purchase upon request at the time the purchase is made, or upon payment of account. Votes will be given upon the Entry Blank and free voting coupons that appear in this newspaper and upon payment of subscriptions. (See printed vote schedule). Votes are not transferable from one baby to another baby and in the event an entrant is withdrawn from the Election, the votes cast for it will be cancelled. In the event a tie occurs, prizes of equal value will be given the babies polling the tie votes. Votes positively cannot be purchased; any collusion to nullify competition to the detriment of this newspaper, the co-operating merchants and the other candidates subject these entrants to disqualification. Cash must accompany all subscriptions where votes are credited.

An additional payment upon a subscription turned in previously during the Election will be recognized for votes under the period the original payment was made. The Favorite Baby Election begins today, and will end Saturday night, April 24, 1937. The right is reserved to reject any entry without giving the reason therefore. Right is reserved to add to the list of awards or to give extra prizes or extra votes. A committee of representative citizens will make the awards at the conclusion of the Election. All awards are final and all persons participating (parents and nominators) agree to abide by the Awarding Committee's findings. "Second-payment" subscriptions must be plainly designated as such according to instructions in order to obtain proper credit for votes. All matter pertaining to the Election printed elsewhere in this issue is hereby made part of the rules and conditions governing it. This newspaper reserves the right to correct mistakes or typographical errors that may occur or to make any additions to the rules that may be deemed necessary to the welfare of the participants, the merchants and this newspaper.

THE BABY IS KING

A rose-curtained cradle, where nestled within Soft cambric and flannel, lies pounds seventeen,
Is the throne of a tyrant; that pink little thing
Is an autocrat ruler, for baby is king.

Good, so—and father dares hardly speak
Or walk, lest the sleeper should hear his boots creak,
Grandma is a martyr in muslins and cap
Which the monarch unsettles, as well as her nap.

Papa wise and mighty, just home from "the house"
Grows meek at the threshold and moves like a mouse,
To stare at the bundle, then outward he goes,
Like an elephant, trying to walk on his toes.

Good aunts and cousins before him bow low,
Though he rumples the ringlets, twists collars and bow,
He bids the nurse walk with his majesty's self,
And he cries when she stops, like a merciless elf.

He swings right and left his saucy, fat fist
And then the next moment expects to be kissed;
He demands people's watches to batter about,
And meets a refusal with a struggle and shout.

Then failing to conquer, with passionate cry
He quivers his lips, keeps a tear in his eye,
And so wins the battle, the wise little thing
He knows, the world over, that baby is king!

PIRATES' SCOUT IS CHOSEN BOARD MEMBER

NEW YORK, Feb. 25.—(INS).—Honus Wagner, high commissioner of semi-pro baseball, has announced the appointment of Bill Hinchman, scout of the Pittsburgh Pirates, as a member of the All-American board to select the official All-American team from the talent represented in the finals of the National Semi-Pro Baseball Congress at Wichita, Kan., in August.

Hinchman is the third member that has been officially appointed, the others named by Wagner being Joe Devine, New York Yankees, and Steve O'Rourke, Detroit Tigers.

To Name Others
Sixteen scouts, representing each club in the National and American leagues, Wagner said, would comprise the All-American board.

Wagner, in addition to issuing 16 All-American player certificates, will award 768 all-star diplomas to each of the official all-star players selected from the 48 state tournaments being sanctioned by the National Semi-Pro Baseball Congress.

All ex-professional baseball players are barred from all-state and all-American selections, Wagner announced, but not from participating in the program.

For Youth
"We are attempting to interest youth of America in baseball," Wagner said. "In recent years many of them have turned to other sports during the summer time. Our semi-pro program is providing the incentive for every young boy to get back into baseball and the major leagues are co-operating with us wonderfully."

Wagner said plans were being completed by the Congress to reward the 16 All-American players with a trip to Hawaii.

Wagner announced that All-National certificates would be awarded all-star teams selected from the three foreign tournaments being sanctioned this year by the Congress at Mexico City, Havana and Montreal.

The All-American board, Wagner added, would be completed by April 1.

POCKET-SIZE RADIO

COPENHAGEN.—(INS).—What is claimed to be the smallest radio in the world has been invented here by a Danish engineer, Mr. Arthur Kelsen. It measures only eight inches by six inches by one inch and can easily be carried in a man's pocket or woman's handbag. Despite its size, the set is said to be capable of picking up most of Europe's stations. Mass-production of the sets is to begin immediately.

GLEN CUNNINGHAM IS TO ENTER TWO RACES

NEW YORK, Feb. 25.—(INS).—Glenn Cunningham, America's all-winning miler of 1937 and world record holder for the event both indoors and outdoors, will step into the iron man class at the national A. A. U. championships at Madison Square Garden, February 27, when he anchors the New York Curb Exchange 2900-meter relay and races in the 1500-meter test against one of the best fields of milers of the season.

Chances for a new world's record in the 2900-meter relay went sky rocketing with Cunningham's decision as it is believed Gene Venzke will anchor the New York Athletic Club four and the sensational Donald Lash step out with the Indiana University foursome. Lou Burns, the I. C. 4-A king, will anchor Manhattan College defending titlists as the teams shoot for the indoor record of 7:09 set by Princeton in 1933 when Bill Bonthron first emerged into national prominence.

That year Gene Venzke took the 1500-meter honors in 3:55.4 whereas Bonthron's anchor leg was even faster. Today Venzke holds the indoor standard of 3:49 for 1500 meters.

Manhattan's winning time in 1936 was low as Bill Ray, Dick Lundell, Gene Selley and Burns collaborated to defeat Fordham University, the New York A. C. and New York University in that order.

Harry Hoffman, Jimmy Herbert, winner of all of the 600-yard specials so far this season; Billy Ray, and Cunningham will be the New York Exchange combination. The distances are 400-meters, 200-meters, 800-meters and 1500-meters in the alignment. Hence, the Curb line-up will probably be Herbert, Hoffman, Ray and Cunningham.

SOME SPEED

Light travels faster than any other thing, for, according to scientific calculations, it travels at the amazing rate of 186,000 miles per second. That's really going some!

We pride ourselves for the speed with which we pay all just claims on our companies. It is no uncommon occurrence to have a claim all settled and the beneficiary paid in full twenty-four hours after the notice of the claim is received by us. In some instances they have been paid in even less time than that.

When choosing a company with which to insure, your one consideration should be whether or not they pay claims; and if so, how promptly.

Settle the question once and for all by insuring with us today—you'll find it will pay.

IS THE talk of America!

And Studebaker sales are soaring!

A FEW CENTS A DAY MORE THAN A LOWEST PRICED CAR!

IN January, Studebaker sales went way ahead of January last year . . . in fact they were the largest in the company's history for fifteen years! And that sensational sales advance stems straight from the new 1937 Studebaker's remarkable economy which equals and often betters the best showing of the smaller lowest priced cars! Before you buy any new car, you will be smart to drive a Studebaker and find out why it's called America's spotlight car of the year!
